

This soundtrack was re-recorded with artists including the 1975, Bastille, and CHVRCHES for a 2014 BBC airing of the movie this soundtrack appears on. Cliff Martinez composed the majority of this soundtrack, and the second song on this album is by Desire's Johnny Jewel and repeatedly notes "You keep me under your spell." The first song on this soundtrack opens with the sound of a (*) payphone and features Kavinsky singing "I'm giving you a nightcall." A song by College featuring Electric Youth appears on this soundtrack crooning about a "real human bean" and a "real hero." For 10 points, name this electronic-pop soundtrack for a Nicolas Refn-directed film in which Ryan Gosling stars as a getaway driver.

ANSWER: the soundtrack to Drive

A pair of tortoiseshell sunglasses from this film made by Oliver Goldsmith were remade for an anniversary in 2011 and sell for $440. The main actress in this film exclaimed "Over my dead body!" when studio executives tried to cut the main song, and that actress sings in that song (*) "I'm crossing you in style some day." Bruce Lee reacts angrily to seeing this film after going to it on a date in Dragon: The Bruce Lee Story, and the song "Moon River" was composed for this film. Mickey Rooney performed the racist role of Mr. Yunioshi in this film, and Givenchy designed its main actress's "Little Black Dress." For 10 points, name this film starring Audrey Hepburn as Holly Golightly.

ANSWER: Breakfast at Tiffany's

Immediately AFTER this scene, the protagonist tells a woman lying in a field to "look up" and that "the soul of man has been given wings" as the prelude from Lohengrin plays. A character in this scene states that "we think too much and feel too little" and describes (*) "machine men with machine minds." The protagonist proclaims in this scene, "Let us fight to fulfill that promise" and begins this scene by meekly saying "I'm sorry, but I don't want to be an emperor." Hannah hears this scene through a radio broadcast, and this scene takes place after a barber has been mistaken for Adenoid Hynkel and addresses a crowd of soldiers. For 10 points, name this final speech from a movie in which Charlie Chaplin portrays a parody of Adolf Hitler.

ANSWER: the final speech from The Great Dictator (prompt on partial)

One character in this film violently vomits after seeing the blood from his own impaling. This film was criticized for a joke near its end in which Princess Tilde rewards the protagonist with anal sex, and the 1812 Overture is coordinated with a fireworks-like scene of various (*) exploding heads in this film. One character in this film repeatedly states "Manners maketh man" and dies following an amazingly choreographed massive brawl inside of a hate group church. Eggsy and the Colin Firth-played "Galahad" discover a plot in this movie using cellphone SIM cards to cause mass hysteria among the public. For 10 points, name this 2014 movie about a secret British spy group.

ANSWER: Kingsman: The Secret Service

One minor example of these actors is interrupted by Darcy Lewis while having a lunch date with Jane Foster, while another minor example is poisoned by his partner Detective Hoffman on the orders of Wilson Fisk. A better-known but looser example of these actors leads the Kursed and engages in a teleporting battle involving the (*) Aether. One of these actors states "We're all losers" in a speech, and another example repeatedly states "On your right" while lapping the Falcon on a run. The first person to become one of these actors is exiled to Earth from Asgard in his first appearance in that role. Pratt, Evans, and Hemsworth are the surnames of various of these actors. For 10 points, describe these people who all portray characters from cinematic works based on a shared universe of comics and have the same first name.

ANSWER: actors from the Marvel cinematic universe with the first name Chris (prompt on partial; anti-prompt on any specific people or characters)

In one of these scenes, voices describing various deaths play as two people look at a photograph of a counseling center. One of these scenes occurs after Becca leaves a game of Yahtzee and wanders into the basement, finding Nana and Pop Pop. Elijah Price says to himself (*)“They called me Mr. Glass” after David Dunn experiences visions of Elijah orchestrating disasters in one of these scenes. Dr. Malcolm Crowe realizes he has been dead the entire time in the most famous of these scenes, which are frequently employed by M. Night Shyamalan. For 10 points, name these endings to films in which the audience’s expectations are subverted.
ANSWER: M. Night Shyamalan’s twist endings (or any similar answers; prompt on partial; anti-prompt on specific scenes)

One of these scenes is overlaid with Joey B. Ellis’s song “Go For It,” while another of these scenes is preceded by a description of “kissing the express train” and “some hurtin’ bombs.” The most recent of these scenes ends with various children riding in a circle on rearing (*) dirt bikes in a manner reminiscent of another of these scenes in which a character apparently becomes the Pied Piper. “Hearts on Fire” plays during one of these scenes as a character lifts a bunch of rocks and climbs a mountain. The first of these scenes ends with “Gonna Fly Now” playing triumphantly after a character climbs the steps to the Philadelphia Museum of Art. For 10 points, name these montages in which a boxer gets better at boxing.
ANSWER: training montages from the Rocky series (prompt on partial; anti-prompt on specific scenes)

One of these instances occurs after a description of a makeshift tarp and prompts one character to wonder with Mindy Park whether it was the “first” or the “second” intonation. One of these occurs after a haphazard self-surgery, and another is viewed without (*) sound from outside a window. A heavy series of these instances is followed by Teddy telling the president, “He’s under a tremendous amount of stress,” and happened after one character describes a “gerund form” one of these instances. One of these instances takes place after the protagonist cultivates bacteria and potato crops inside the Hab. For 10 points, name these instances in which a stranded astronaut curses.
ANSWER: Mark Watney’s usage of the f-bomb in The Martian (prompt on just swearing; accept fuck in place of f-bomb, accept either Watney or The Martian)

In a film from this series, Bill Hader states “Old family recipe. Best to keep it a secret” before being hit by a flying kitchen knife, while Booker is told he’s a legend in another film from this series. Return of the Ghost and (*) Generations are among the films in this series, and in a scene in this series a character states, “What are you talking about? What contract dispute?” alluding to a role by Seth Rogen in this series. The last film in this series takes place in space and is titled “2121,” while various earlier films take place at “Ninja Academy,” “Scuba Class,” “Culinary School,” and “Medical School.” For 10 points, name this series, multiple films of which are depicted in the credits to the “22” instance of this series.
ANSWER: 21 Jump Street

One actor’s response to being asked about this scene was “I don’t know and I don’t care.” Kristian Brown discovered an old script in a University of Brunswick library describing this scene. One character in this scene states, (*) “I’ve been looking forward to this for a long time,” after which the script describes that character being consumed in a “blinding flash of light.” The director contrasted a character as “John Wayne” or “a cold-blooded killer” when discussing this scene, and a 1997 Special Edition led to the dispute over this scene after apparently showing Greedo firing his blaster. For 10 points, name this scene in which an intergalactic smuggler definitely took the initiative in firing his blaster.
ANSWER: Han shot first (or things similar; minus infinity for “Greedo shot first”)